

Omaha High-Low Poker tips for Advanced Players

A psychology to tolerate failure despite a big expectation is very essential. Advanced players tend to play big bet games in Omaha high/low and obviously the losses in such games are also big; the mind frame of the advanced players should be balanced to tolerate losses and to decide wisely despite a series of losses.

- Poker tip 1: The first step to being an advanced player in Omaha high/low is “accepting to loose in games” and yet remaining unshaken about the loss.
- Poker tip 2: Popularly, the connecting cards like K-Q-J-T in Omaha high/low are termed weak, but contrarily experienced players tend to support this batch of cards. Expert players recommend that with playing connecting cards like KQJT in Omaha high/low wisely in the flop, is going to give less chance for a low to compete. Advanced players when playing Omaha high/low should learn how to kill the low hands. The net result is a big pot. When you kill the low hand, there is not going to be a low claim on the pot and you can go with the whole pot with your high rank card!
- Poker tip 3: Secondly, advanced players of Omaha high/low eight or better need to concentrate for a two way chance of getting to split with a high and low. A hand with A-A-2-3 has a two way possibility for a scoop.
- Poker tip 4: High straight cards like A-A-K-Q in Omaha high/low should be played well in the flop. The way you play the flop in Omaha high/low determines the victory in the most part. You can either play ahead or throw your hands based on what is showing up in the flop. A board card like T-9-3 or Q-Q-9 or A-Q-T can make you flop well, board cards like 2-3-Q or 5-7-8, or K-5-2 can make you flop poor. You need to decide right! Cards like such can be played wisely from any position in Omaha high/low provided a wise decision is taken in the flop.
- Poker tip 5: Being very choosy about what you are going to play in Omaha high/low eight or better is necessary. Unless you have the best of the nuts, you can expect anything to go wild through the turn and river.
- Poker tip 6: Limitations should be pre-determined about the amount of bets you are ready to loose. Having a psychology to loose as much as possible and still keep playing can be annoying and senseless. Decide to not loose more than an X times of bets in any game. Decide you are not going to lose more than 20 times or 25 times of bets. Stop playing beyond that. Never give away to temptations. Financial responsibility is the key to having your love for the game alive.

About the Author

Robert Galin is a respected poker author and expert player. His articles and Poker strategy cards have helped to educate players around the world.

Source: <http://www.diyresource.com>