

Picnic Tables Offer Outdoor Family Fun

What could be more charming than looking out into a backyard and seeing a wooden picnic table out there, covered in a red and white checked cloth? Picnic tables are the backyard accessory that just won't go out of style, and for good reason. After all, without your wooden picnic table, where would you gather with family and neighbors to enjoy time together during those impromptu neighborhood barbecues, and where could sit around with your friends and enjoy the nice weather while keeping an eye on the kids running back and forth across the yard? A picnic table may not actually add property value to your home in dollars and cents, but it adds sentimental value and togetherness time that can't be quantified in cold, hard cash.

The design of picnic tables has not changed much over the years. The standard table is made of some kind of wood - either natural pine wood or wood that is stained a deep red. The table top is made up of two or three long planks of wood, depending on how deep the table is. Benches line each side of the table for side by side seating. The average picnic table seats three or four on each side - more if the sitters are kids. Of course, you can find longer and shorter picnic tables, including ones that are designed for private meals - picnic tables built for two.

If you want a wooden table like a picnic table, there are a few different ways you can get one. First of all, you can simply buy one from a shop. Home improvement stores, hardware stores and even some department stores all sell picnic tables that are ready to be transferred to your backyard and put to use that night. Of course, if you are the handy sort and want to save a little cash, you can build your own picnic table.

Once your budgetary restraints are under control, you can tackle the fun stuff - coming up with a theme for the nursery decoration. If you know if you are having a boy or a girl, you can be led in your decorating by this knowledge. Of course, if you don't, or even if you do, gender based nursery decorating is not required. You can choose literally any theme that you want in decorating your nursery. While some people want the nursery to fit in with the decor of the rest of their home, others use the nursery as an interior design playground, where fanciful ideas out of place in the rest of the home can come alive. Make use of the internet and magazines to get the creative juices flowing.

About the Author

Jerry Blackburn routinely publishes short articles on themes similar to ridgid miter saw. You can see his abstracts on ridgid table saw and ridgid miter saw here.

Source: <http://www.diyresource.com>