

The Royal Treatment: Wrought Iron Curtain Rods & Drapery Hardware

Items made of wrought iron last for a very long time. Wrought iron features such a low carbon base that is easily molded into all sorts of interesting designs. Wrought iron curtain rods and wrought iron drapery hardware are actually some of the most becoming decorative items you can use to accentuate the atmosphere of your home. With so many attractive patterns in wrought iron curtain rods and wrought iron drapery hardware, you are sure to feel like a King or Queen of your home while you decorate with these items.

You can create a sturdy and rustically beautiful ambiance in any room of your home whether it is modern or in a country style, when using wrought iron curtain rods and drapery hardware. There are interesting designs of wrought iron curtain rods and drapery hardware that is complimentary to many different styles of furnishings, in the office or in the home, wrought iron is very elegant.

Generally, wrought iron curtain rods or drapery rods and drapery hardware come in black, brown as well as metallic with knobs that are delicately impressed. Although, they come in a limited color span, there are many interesting and decorative designs and styles from which to choose. Normally, wrought iron drapery rods and hardware provides a becoming contrast to the curtain materials as well as the surface of your walls, since their design allows these other surfaces to show through their intricate details.

One of the greatest benefits of wrought iron in design is the beautiful and delicate contrast it provides. Walls are painted or papered and draperies are a textile of some sort. But wrought iron curtain rods are yet another medium that adds interest and beauty to your design. They are also unusually versatile. Wrought iron curtain rods and matching drapery hardware are installed in bedrooms, kitchens, living rooms and dining rooms. In fact, you could match the hardware in each room for even more continuity. Obviously draperies will vary, but the common theme or wrought iron curtain rods will create a relaxing atmosphere.

Wrought iron drapery hardware comes in a wide assortment such as double or standard curtains, swags, curtain shelf brackets, curtain rod brackets, tiebacks and curtain rings, and many other types of wrought iron accessories to fit your lifestyle. You can match and blend all the textures of your home while adding an air of sheer elegance and a distinguished feeling of class to your home, with the use of such wrought iron window treatments.

They offer ease of installment while they are long lasting in their lifespan. Keep in mind that the thicker the wrought iron curtain rod the heavier it is in weight and they will require a strong wall for hanging your window treatment as well as the proper strength in the support brackets and their attachments. While installing them you must also bear in mind the weight of the curtains that will hang from your wrought iron curtain rods, so you must choose wisely.

Once your curtains are hung, maintenance is a breeze. Simply wipe clean with a damp cloth. Now that's what I call "low maintenance!" If you are installing wrought iron curtain rods in a room other than the typical living and bedroom, look for unique accessories. Towel rings, candle holders, plant stands and other miscellaneous items can all be purchased in wrought iron. Little touches here and there help to blend your wrought iron curtain rods and matching drapery hardware.

Wrought iron is a beautiful addition to any home. By using it in your window treatments you will compliment any style that exists in your home. Enjoy the variety of design and you are sure to find the perfect wrought iron curtain rods and drapery hardware for your castle. Edited by Glinda Zuladra

About the Author

Drapery rods are the adornments of Queens. Your kingdom will appear stunning with fabulous window treatments.

Source: <http://www.diyresource.com>