

Your Step By Step Guide To Seo Backlinks For Beginners

When creating a website, most new webmasters concentrate on making their site as perfect as possible before ever even starting to work on getting indexed in the major Search Engines (like Google). This is the beginning webmaster's biggest failure when it comes to SEO.

Search Engines want new relevant content. Nothing says new content like a always changing site. So how can you accomplish this? While you build your site and are adding pages and making changes, search engines see this and constantly spider your site, hungry for something new. You do this while you have already begun your backlink and SEO strategy.

It is important to have a sound strategy when working towards a well indexed site. Backlinks placed in the right place can have your website listed in a matter of days. It is actually rather easy. When webmasters complain about not being indexed, it is because they are going about it all wrong.

To have your site indexed is not very hard if you backlink in the following places:

1. Forums (Announce your site in the Digital Point Forums or Web Talk)
2. Blogs (Post valuable comments on blogs or make your own blog posts by creating a Blogger account)
3. Directories (Essential part of backlink strategy)
4. Article Directories (Add your articles to as many sites as possible with your site's backlink)
5. Get Link Partners (exchange links with other similar niche sites)

Number one and two above are your most likely avenues when starting. After posting one or two times in a forum and a post or 2 in a high pagerank blog, your site will be indexed quick. Ensure you use "anchor text" when posting to direct keywords which fit your site description in your links.

Now you can move forward with your backlink campaign and submit your site to numerous directories, article sites, and begin exchanging links with other webmasters. You are on your way to successful Backlinks!
